Effective December 31st, 2008, Albuterol CFC inhalers will no longer be available. If you use an albuterol CFC inhaler, you may need to talk with your health care professional about switching to an albuterol HFA inhaler. The Food and Drug Administration and the United States Department of Health and Human Services is mandating the switch because CFCs are harmful to the environment and can have a negative impact on everyone's health.

More information can be found here:

http://www.fda.gov/cder/mdi/albuterol.htm